LEHTO, EASY WINNER OVER SCHULTZ. MAKES HIT HERE

Clever Finnish Wrestler Has No Trouble in Disposing of Butte Man.

TO MEET JACK ROWETT NEXT

Saturday night's wrestling show at the Calumet theater, staged by South Range and Calumet people, was one of the most satisfying athletic exhibitions that has been put on here in several years and the Finnish athletes of South Range stepped into a leading place among the exponents of the wrestling game in this part of the country. The main event of the evening was the catch-as-catch-can wrestling bout between Carl Lehto of South Range and "German" Gus Schultz, of Butte, Mont., both heavyweights. Lehto had little difficulty in disposing of his husky opponent, getting two straight falls in 2 minutes, 30 seconds, and two minutes, 15 seconds, respectively.

Lehto is a wonder at this style of wrestling. He intentionally allowed Schultz to hold before both falls. Schultz tried a half-Nelson and Lehto turned him over, pinning the Butte man almost without attempting to break the hold. Schultz is short, but chunky, being built like a barrel and has a prodigious amount of strength, but Lehto is away and above him in every department of the game. Lehto got his first fall with a half-Nelson hold. Ole Olson refereed satisfactorily to all. An unusually large crowd of wrestling fans from all parts of the county witnessed the exhibition.

Lehto to Meet Rowett.

Lehto proposes to meet all wrestlers who are anxious for a try with him and Saturday night he accepted a challenge made on behalf of John Rowett, the champion Cornish heavy, made by William Willis of Calumet. Peterson of Hancock also asked for a match and had the money at the ringside and ready to post. In view of the fact that Lehto agreed to take on Rowett, however, the money has not been hung up as yet, but Peterson will be accommodated with a match at a later date. Lehto and Rowett will probably wrestle Graco-Roman or mixed styles, including Cornish. Although not so stocky, Lehto is a better built and better developed man than Rowett, having massive shoulders and immense arms, with small and tapering waist.

Cornish Exhibition.

Clark of Trumountain and Alfred Davey of Calumet furnished the Cornish wrestling lovers with a surprisingly good exhibition of this style of wrestling. The two were about evenly matched, although their wrestling differed greatly. They went eighteen hitches without a fall for either man and the exhibition was declared a draw by Referee Olson. These two men are to be matched again.

Graco-Roman Work.

Gronlund and Wirtanen, two clever Finnish wrestlers, gave some very classy exhibitions of Graco-Roman and catch-as-catch-can work. Both proved themselves adepts at the art. Gronlund, especially, is a very slippery man and has great strength and Wirtanen is about a match for him.

The fans are now clamoring for more wrestling shows in which Lehto and his two companions, Gronlund and Wirtanen, can take part.

IS AFTER AL GAUFMAN.

Sam Langford Would Like to Meet the Big Californian.

New York, Dec. 6.—Sam Langford's manager now says that as Jack Johnson cannot make a match, Al Kaufman can have a fight of 20 or 45 rounds for $10,000 a side if he will cover Langford's forfeit in Boston. Kaufman can get backing for this amount for a 20-round fight with Jeffries, but not for a battle with Langford. Kaufman, however, says he will make a match with the Boston negro, and also declares that he can beat him easily.

If Kaufman and Langford are on the level they can settle their differences in a 12-round bout before the Armory club of Boston, which is ready to stake them at any time. Jim Barry, by the way, is anxious to fight Kaufman or Jack O'Brien and has $500 up to go as a side bet. Barry does not include Langford in his challenge.

however, for the excellent reason that last year Sam knocked him out twice in his time.

TED SULLIVAN'S NEW STUNT.

Veteran Baseball Man to Open a Players' Bureau in Chicago.

Ted Sullivan, the veteran baseball man, is to open a bureau for the supply and demand of players. The institution, to be established with headquarters in the Corn Exchange Bank building, Chicago, is to be styled the American Baseball agency, and special attention will be given the minor leagues. Ball tossers reared in the smaller circuits will be helped along. Sullivan's agency will enter particularly to the finding of jobs for the good players who are running at large. According to plans mapped out by Mr. Sullivan, vacancies are bound to arise among all ball clubs during the heat of the pennant races. Players become ill, many are released outright, others skip their contracts and in various other ways the managers of the various teams frequently find themselves up an alley for material. Sullivan's agency will do the work.

CAMP ON NOTRE DAME.

Famous Football Expert Gives Michigan the Western Championship.

Walter Camp pays little attention to the claims of Notre Dame for premier honors in the west. Here is the way the eastern critic slices up the situation:

"Michigan's showing is superior to that of Notre Dame, taking the whole season and the schedules of both into consideration. Michigan can absolutely claim the conference championship because Minnesota, without the shade of a doubt, won that by defeating Chicago and Wisconsin most decisively, only to be overwhelmed in turn by Yost's men.

"It is most doubtful that Notre Dame could have beaten Minnesota at any stage of the season. At any rate, it didn't.

"I had not seen Michigan play this year before the Notre Dame game, but I told Mr. Yost that very evidently his team was suffering a bad slump and would recover. His team didn't look so good in that game, of course, but any team that is losing takes on the appearance of a set of dubs.

"I would have liked to have attended the Minnesota game very much, as I believe it was one of the grandest games of the year. I was much impressed with the spirit of the Michigan men during the season, and must say that Michigan will bear watching when it meets the east next year, if it has a truly representative team.

"It was most remarkable for Yost's men to suffer a defeat and then rise from his ashes and beat Penn and Minnesota. That resembles Yale pluck and bulldog courage."

CREW AND PASSENGERS LOST.

London, Dec. 4.—All hope of the survival of the passengers and crew, thirty-three in all, of the Isle of Man steamer Eilan Vannin, was abandoned today when portions of the steamer's upper works and small boats picked up on the banks of the Mersey were definitely identified as belonging to the missing vessel. Nothing has been heard of the vessel since she left Ramsey, Isle of Man, Thursday night.

OFFICIAL BATTING RECORD OF THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

The Figures, Announced Today, Show Cobb Best Individual Hitter.

DETROIT CHAMPIONS ON TOP

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Tyrus Cobb, of Detroit, was again the best batter in the American league according to official averages issued by President B. B. Johnson here today. The hard hitting outfielder of the champions batted better than ever and ended the season with the phenomenal figures of .377. Cobb participated in 154 games and made 216 hits. Not only was Cobb the leading hitter, but he outclassed all the others in base stealing with a total of 76 thefts to his credit. Cobb and Tris Speaker, of Boston, tied for the honors in hitting home runs, with seven each.

Eddie Collins, of Philadelphia, finished second both in hitting and base stealing. Collins played in 153 games and made 198 hits for a mark of .346 and stole 67 bases. Lapp, of Philadelphia, and Gardner, of New York, finished third and fourth in the batting but played in only 21 and 22 games respectively.

Napoleon Lajoie, of Cleveland, landed fifth with .324 for 128 games and Sam Crawford, of Detroit, was next with .314 for 156 games. Lord and Speaker, of Boston, and Baker, of Philadelphia, were the others to bat more than .300—making a total of nine above that coveted mark.

Owen Bush, of Detroit, was the best sacrifice hitter, with 52 successful efforts to his credit.

The Detroit champions led in team hitting with the excellent average of .267 and Boston was second with .260.

COY TO MINNESOTA?

According to a Minneapolis report Ted Coy, captain of the Yale football eleven this season, may coach the Minnesota eleven next fall, as it is considered probable that Dr. Williams will be ousted from the board of athletic control meets on Saturday. Tom Shevlin, also of Yale, and Roper, a couple of years ago a gridiron star at Princeton, also are being considered but it generally is believed that Coy will be the next Gopher coach. The board of control met in Minneapolis yesterday to consider the matter of a coach, but postponed definite action until Saturday. There is much opposition to the retention of Dr. Williams among Minnesota alumni in Minneapolis and St. Paul, and a number of alumni have endeavored to secure installation of the graduate coaching system for the Gopher institution. The board does not look with a great deal of favor on this plan, but at least five of the ten members are advocating openly a change in the coach. Williams' contract expires January 1. This means that he will be either retained or released when the case comes up. A report from the manager of athletics at the meeting showed the football season had netted Minnesota a profit of $35,000 in round numbers. There are many, however, who have great faith in Williams and say he has made football in Minnesota.

JEFF NEEDS THE MONEY.

Big Pugilist Plans on Going Into Business in California.

Jim Jeffries and Sam Berger are figuring on going into business in California in case their plans for the Jeffries-Johnson fight do not go amiss. Jeff thinks he will win sure, and expects to clean up something like $75,000, if not more, if things break his way. Jim is looked upon by many as a very rich man, but he is not. He is comfortably fixed, but that's about all. There are a dozen or more fighters who have bigger bank accounts and more property than Jeff. Who the richest fighter of them all really is it would be a hard matter to say. Perhaps it is Jack Munro, who is mayor of a Canadian town and a large holder of valuable Cobalt mining property. Tom Sharkey and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien are counted among the top-notch financiers, with Battling Nelson close up, although they do say that the Battler has of late purchased several very choice gold bricks. Tommy Ryan is another boxer who has a large chunk of the world's paper. The wealth of Tommy Burns may never become known to the general public, but those who are close to him say that he is worth $100,000 or more, and that's a whole lot when you come to think of it. Jack Johnson, they say, has not more than $25,000 in cash and real estate, all told. While a good many of the boxers are well fixed it is almost a pity to tell of those who have nothing. Terry McGovern is "busted," so it Young Griffo, and, as is well known George Dixon had not a dollar to his name when he died. Jack McAuliffe does not want for anything nor is Kid Lavigne hard up, but Joe Gans and Frank Erne are not in a position to give money to the poor.

Poor old Peter Mayer, who fought a number of championship battles, has little to show for his efforts, yet he is almost as well off as Bob Fitzsimmons, by many considered the greatest of all fighters. Bob came to this country from Australia without funds and has gone back in pretty near the same fix. Gus Ruhlin was taught how to save his skin by that astute manager Billy Madden, and has a snug sum planted, but James J. Corbett, the most popular man of them all, has nothing to show for his many fights except what he can earn through his ability as a star on the stage. No one knows whether John L. Sullivan is rich or poor but himself.

SMASHES PICTURE BID RECORDS.

A. J. GILLINGHAM.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 6.—Seventy thousand dollars for the exclusive rights for the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures is the record making bid of A. J. Gillingham and George Kleine. These are the same rich men who secured the exclusive rights to the Jeffries-Ketchel pictures. Gillingham's rise in the moving picture business is one of the business marvels of the age. He first began operating a moving picture theater eight years ago. The money came easily and he enlarged his business until today he is able to pay a fortune for a side line to the fighting game which was never heard of a few years ago.

THIRD ANNUAL REPORT

variable, geared, second motion hoisting engine, hand operated auxiliaries, capable of hoisting 5 tons, 1,200 feet.

One, two-stage cross compound, condensing Corliss type, Nordberg air compressor, 1,200 cubic feet capacity.

Snow duplex boiler feed pumps and all other accessories for steam connection between boilers, hoist and compressor. The piping of this plant was contracted for by the Moore Engineering Company of San Francisco, who have completed an excellent piece of work, satisfactory in every detail. The plant is housed in a corrugated iron building, 52 x 34 feet.

Gallows frame arranged for double cages.

Combined machine and carpenter shop 40 x 100 feet supplied with the best appliances for all work other than foundry.

Blacksmith shop 32 x 40, equipped with air hammer and two forges.

Two 30,000 gallon steel storage tanks for oil and water.

Warehouse and office 30 x 60, sufficient for all needs for years to come.

Oil house for storage of inflammable compounds.

The whole being fully covered by insurance.

Steel ore bins are to be erected and railroad connection with the Arizona Commercial Copper Company's smelter, 1,300 feet away, is being made.

With such modern and efficient plant, the McGraw Shaft can handle 500 tons per day whenever called upon to do so.

Limestone Mine.

Very little work has been done from this shaft during the year just closed owing to the centralization of operations at the McGraw and Gardner shafts. The Limestone vein was further exploited on the 3rd level 182 feet west and 202 feet east. While the vein persists, no large ore bodies were exposed, but at this shallow depth it is not probable that commercial ore in quantity will be found. It is the intention of the management to postpone further work here until a crosscut south is run from the McGraw shaft to explore this region. The Limestone vein must therefore be considered as an unproven but promising asset to the company.

General Note.

This shaft has not been sunk a foot since the last annual report, nor has the surface equipment been altered, it being our object to first prove the value of the veins at the south end of Superior & Boston territory.

From the 4th level station crosscuts north and south have been run 525 and 460 feet respectively. In the north crosscut several small fractures in the shattered shale were passed through but none showing commercial mineralization. 70 feet south of the shaft the Black Oxide vein was cut showing 1½ feet of hematite. Continuing south the crosscut was in shale to the breast. The Iron King vein appears at this horizon as a widely shattered zone in the shale, the breccia being cemented by oxide of iron and calcite. For a width of 150 feet, continuous samples yielded from one to three ounces of silver per ton. At greater depth it is reasonable to anticipate a segregation of values.

A drift has been run westwards 774 feet on the strike of the Black Oxide vein, with crosscuts north and south totalling 238 feet. As the vein is in the shattered shale as far as prospecting, very little segregation of values has been noticeable, although the vein persists as a strong mineralized fracture. The last two months' work has shown an increasing proportion of oxide of manganese, copper stained, in the vein filling. It is probable that below this mass, an ore body of commercial value will be developed. We are now pushing forward with this drift to get under the fine ore body proved by development on three sides in the Black Oxide tunnel.

The Black Oxide vein is so well and commercially mineralized in the tunnel 450 feet above that we are fully justified in being optimistic regarding the future of the Gardner.

All annual assessment work on unpatented claims has been done in accordance with the plans outlined last year, that is, by the further sinking
